ABOUT THE SEMINAR

The National Seminar on “Gender Sensitization for Creating Safe Learning and Healing Environments” is envisioned as an academic forum to examine contemporary issues, challenges, and best practices related to gender equity and inclusive education. In consonance with the National Education Policy (NEP) 2020, the seminar seeks to promote gender-responsive educational practices that uphold the principles of equity, inclusion, dignity, and social justice. Recognizing the pivotal role of teacher education institutions in shaping future educators, the seminar aims to foster critical discourse on creating safe, inclusive, and emotionally supportive learning environments. It will bring together academicians, teacher educators, researchers, policymakers, school leaders, practitioners, and students to deliberate on emerging perspectives in gender-inclusive pedagogy, mental health and well-being, digital safety, child protection, and institutional support mechanisms. The deliberations are expected to generate evidence-based recommendations, encourage interdisciplinary collaboration, and contribute to strengthening teacher education and educational policies, thereby advancing quality education and promoting gender equality in accordance with national priorities and the Sustainable Development Goals.

OBJECTIVES

- To promote gender sensitization and gender-responsive educational practices for creating safe, inclusive, and equitable learning environments.
- To facilitate academic dialogue on gender-inclusive pedagogy, mental health, child protection, and digital safety in education.
- To strengthen teacher education by integrating the principles of equity, inclusion, and social justice in alignment with the National Education Policy (NEP) 2020.
- To generate evidence-based recommendations and foster collaboration among educators, researchers, policymakers, and practitioners for advancing quality education and gender equality.

CERTIFICATE

Certificate will be provided to all the participants after the completion of the seminar. It is mandatory to attend all the sessions and submit feedback form to obtain the certificate.
